A.Y. 2020/21

ART. 1
The Seasonal School

The Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies of Pisa, Italy, is offering the Seasonal School in Climate Change and International Law: Interdisciplinary Perspectives. The Course will be delivered online from the 12th to the 16th of July 2021, for a total of 40 hours.

The course is limited to a maximum of 20 positions.

Each partner university benefits from one reserved seat.

The language of instruction is English.

ART. 2
ECTS - European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System

The acknowledgement of four (4) European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System is foreseen for students who attend the entire training course. Acquiring ECTS is subject to complying with the attendance obligations and passing the foreseen learning assessment tests.

ART. 3
Educational Objectives

The Seasonal School “Climate Change and International Law: Interdisciplinary Perspectives” is addressed to students interested in acquiring theoretical and practical knowledge in climate change and international law, as well as other related disciplines.

In particular, the training objectives consist in providing:

- (a) An in depth understanding of the legal aspects related to climate change, focusing on the international legal framework (actors, primary and secondary sources of law, enforcement mechanisms, achievements and remaining challenges), as well as the regional and domestic legal spheres of selected States, adopting a multidisciplinary approach in order to cover different areas of law (i.e. international law including human rights, public comparative law, agricultural law, migration law), also considering how these legal developments are shaping global governance efforts to address climate change;
- (b) General basic knowledge of the scientific aspects of climate change (facts and figures, scientific elements from latest IPCC Reports, atmosphere dynamics and past, present and future climate variability);
- (c) General basic knowledge of the economic aspects of climate change (which economic sectors are most vulnerable to climate risks, what are the consequences of policy inaction for the global economy, economic costs and benefits of a transition to renewable energies; economic policy instruments, including emissions trading; the role of the private sector);

(d) General basic knowledge of the philosophical and ethical aspects of climate change (what is meant by intergenerational justice, how does climate change confront serious ethical issues of fairness and responsibility across individuals, nations, generations, and the rest of nature).
